City Gives Selectees Gala Send-Off

BIG CROWD ON HAND FOR FIRST OF 3 GOODBYES

Draftees, Headed by Band and Color Guard, Parade To Union Station.

TWO MORE GROUPS LEAVE

Another Send-Off Planned For Tomorrow Noon and For Friday Morning.

Mansfield said farewell this noon to the first section of one of the largest groups of army selectees to leave the city during World war 2.

History repeated itself at the Union station. This was Mansfield's first group to leave for training by railroad since World War 1. A large number of boys leaving today were sons of Mansfield men who left the same station in 1917 and 1918 for the first world conflict.

A crowd of 3,000 was on hand to cheer the draftees when they arrived at the station.

Shortly before the selectees marched down Main street, a group of 30 youths from Mansfield and surrounding communities left the bus station on North Diamond street en route to Cleveland to be sworn into naval service. They will go from Cleveland to the Great Lakes training station.

Mothers, fathers, wives, sweethearts, brothers, gathered around the selectees as they waited to board an Erie train which takes them first to Marion and then to Indianapolis where they will be inducted into the army.

Today's group was the first of three to leave in as many days. Board 2 will send a contingent along the same route tomorrow morning while Board 3 sends still more by bus on Friday.

Today's group was the first which returned home for a two-week furlough between the time of their final examinations and their induction into the army. Previously, draftees were inducted immediately upon successful passage of physical examinations.

Main street was a colorful picture as the selectees marched down from Central park to Union station. At the station, they were greeted by friends and relatives who gathered there for farewells and a huge crowd of well-wishers.

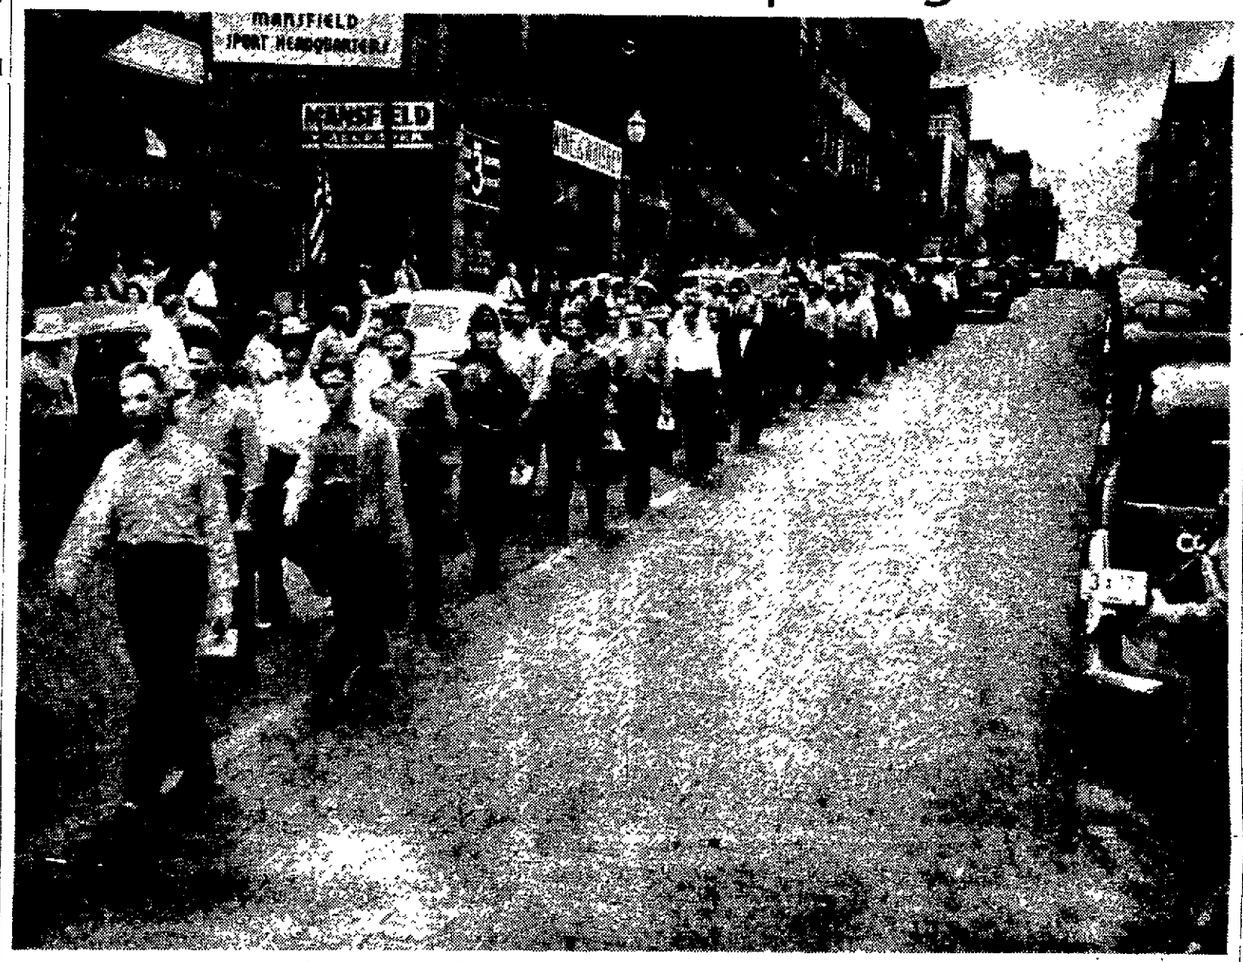
As Mansfield Honors Departing Draftees



Swinging down Main street on their way to Union station, these men from Selective Service Board No. 1 are leaving today for army training camps. Crowds lined the street as they passed. A color guard and the Senior high school band accompanied them.

MANSFIELDER FOUND DEAD IN E. 4TH HOME

Russell Cox, About 60, Ends Own Life After Firing 2 Shots at Mate.

SHE'S CRITICALLY HURT

Neighbor Hears Screams of Woman, Finds Man Dead, Wife Wounded.

Russell Cox, 60, of 131 East Fourth street, packing company employe, killed himself by firing a bullet into his head shortly before noon today after he had first critically wounded his wife by firing two shots with the same revolver.

Cox died almost instantly from a wound over the right ear.

His wife, who is also about 60, was rushed to General hospital with one bullet wound in her breast and another in the back. Her condition was described as critical.

Patrolmen Russell Miles and George Yoakam were dispatched to the Cox residence in a police cruiser after Mrs. Jay G. Calver, a neighbor, phoned headquarters.

Mrs. Calver told officers she ran to the Cox home when she heard Mrs. Cox screaming.

Going into the house, she saw Mrs. Cox lying in the bedroom, blood rushing from her wounds, and screaming for help.

She found Cox lying on the floor in the kitchen.

Police said there was evidence of a scuffle in the bedroom of the residence. They said Cox evidently shot his wife while they were in the bedroom.

Then, they theorized, Cox evidently went to the kitchen where he fired the bullet into his head.

Mrs. Cox managed to get to the bedroom from where her screams attracted the attention of Mrs. Calver.

Police said they were informed that Mr. and Mrs. Cox were having domestic difficulties.

Cox was an employe of the Kearns Packing company. He had telephoned his employer this morning, saying:

"I got a job to do today at home."

Police had been summoned to the residence Tuesday evening to end the couple's quarreling. Seemingly a forecast of the tragedy then in the making the police report said:

"Trouble ended for the time being.

Russian Lines Waver Before Nazi Advance

Germans Use Air-Borne Tanks, Troops In Smashing Caucasus Attack, Seize Railroad Stations, Highway Intersections.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The Germans dropped masses of parachute troops and air-borne whippet tanks deep behind the wavering Russian lines in the Caucasus today in an effort to split up the Red army forces falling back before the biggest tank assaults of the war.

Smashing forward with waves of as many as 150 tanks against a Soviet defense which often included only a few if any tanks, the Germans forced new Russian withdrawals in the Bielayaglina sector 50 miles southwest of Salsk and around Tsimlyanska along the Don midway between Rostov and Stalingrad.

Earlier, the Russian noon communique had reported a Soviet withdrawal in the Kletskaya sector about 70 miles northwest of Stalingrad—area of the Red army's greatest strength.

The latest German advance in the Bielayaglina district, following a 47-mile Soviet withdrawal to the north of the railroad center, threatened the encirclement of the Soviet forces still battling around Kushchevka.

Kushchevka is nearly 50 miles north of Bielayaglina, deep behind the German armored spearheads thrusting into the heart of the Caucasus.

Official dispatches told of units of German parachutists, armed with machine guns and demolition equipment, and groups of air-borne "tankettes" dropped near railroad stations, highway intersections and villages behind the Russian lines.

The 'chutists and tanks, it was said, fought to hold the strategic points until German mobile columns could rush up, but it was reported that most of them were wiped out quickly.

At one point three of the Nazi air-borne tanks were blown up with "Molotov cocktails"—benzine-filled bottles hurled from ambush.

An official Tass agency dispatch from the front said that violent fighting was raging day and night all along the front from the Sea of Azov in a wide-swinging arc up to Voronezh on the Don along the Germans' exposed northern flank.

Speaking of the "increasing gravity of the situation," Tass said that hour after hour the Germans hurled tanks—"waves of dozens," against the Soviet positions.

In one small sector, a battalion of anti-tank riflemen were said to have battled for 25 hours against the assaults of 150 Nazi tanks, finally disabling 17 of them.

The noon communique said a charge by Cossack cavalrymen killed 3,000 Germans in one sec-

FIND NEW 'RED LIGHT' RACKET

Police Crack Down on Taxicab 'Piloting'; Soldier and Girl Get Fines.

Police cracked down today on a new angle of professional prostitution—via taxicab.

From a story told them by a furloughed soldier they arrested one Katheryn Scofield at an East Third street address. She was fined $100 and costs and committed to the Toledo workhouse after a hearing in municipal court today, on a charge of disorderly conduct, and the soldier was fined $10 and costs on the same charge.

From the soldier's story, police learned that he had been taken to a North Main street restaurant by a taxi driver where he was introduced to a girl, and that they subsequently went to a North Main street hotel.

Police said they had learned that a "certain few" taxi drivers had been working in collusion with "call girls" and announced

Missionaries, Released By Japs, En Route to Mansfield

Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Matti, Mansfield missionaries to China who have been prisoners of the Japanese for nearly four years, sailed from a Portuguese East African port July 28 and are en route to Mansfield, relatives here learned today.

Rev. Matti is a brother of Mrs. E. C. Jenkins, 426 West Third street, who has had no direct work from the couple for many months.

Mrs. Jenkins was informed by the Friends church missionary board that Rev. and Mrs. Matti had sailed with more than 1,500 other evacuees from China and Japan and probably will arrive in New York Aug. 25.

An investigator for the FBI was in Mansfield yesterday to question Mrs. Jenkins concerning Rev. and Mrs. Matti, a precedure that is followed in wartime in the case of every person entering the country from a foreign port.

The Mattis, who plan to make their home in Mansfield when they return, are aboard the Gripsholm, an exchange boat. It is expected to return to the United States by way of South America, stopping at Rio de Janerio, Mrs. Jenkins said.

Rev. and Mrs. Matti, representing the Friends church, went to China four years ago and were stationed in Nanking when the Japs invaded China. Relatives here had been unable to reach them by mail and no letters have come from the minister and his wife since last fall.

SABOTEURS WAIT WORD ON FATES

Read Cheap 'Mags' as FDR Promises Announcement Tomorrow or Friday.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The eight German saboteurs who were tried by a military commission sat dejectedly in their jail cells thumbing through cheap magazines and detective novels today while President Roosevelt promised that the fate of the spies will be announced tomorrow or Friday.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a specially prepared statement, said:

"Under the order setting up the military commission, the president was constituted as the reviewing authority in respect to the verdict of the commission. I am now in the process of reviewing the evidence, which is voluminous. I will have finished within two or three days.

The president, who himself is a lawyer, gave out what he described as the three tiny sentences at his press conference late yesterday. Thus, the two or three days will expire tomorrow or Friday. He added that either he or White House Secretary Stephen T. Early would probably make the announcement.

Meanwhile, according to an official who saw them, the saboteurs, knowing that they face the last mile, tried to pass the time and escape from thoughts of the future by reading cheap magazines dealing with romance and detective fiction.

The magazines were sent to the prisoners by members of the defense staff, it was reported.

GOVERNOR LEADS

Runs Two To One Ahead of Kump in Primary Voting.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—Gov. Matthew M. Neely, who left the U. S. senate two years ago "to clean up West Virginia politics," today was apparently winner by the two to one margin he predicted—of the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

Neely's bitter battle with former Gov. H. Guy Kump for the senatorial nomination highlighted an otherwise listless off-year primary in which only about 20 per cent of the state's 941,000 eligible voters participated.

USE BOMBERS

Army Converting Warcraft Into Cargo Planes.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps today told a senate committee that a shortage of cargo planes has forced the army to convert many bombers into cargo ships and also map a program for even further conversion of four-engine bombers.

"That is why we are not so much worried by the question of cargo planes as some people," the general said. "We can always convert bombers into cargo planes, but we can't convert cargo planes into bombers."

Testifying before a senate military affairs subcommittee Gen. Arnold laid emphasis on the need by the army for cargo aircraft for long-range transport of supplies and troops and towing of gliders.

HERE'S WHY!

FDR Says U. S. Has More Rubber Experts Than Brands of Pickles.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—It's little wonder, President Roosevelt indicates, that there's confusion in the public mind about the rubber situation.

There are more rubber experts, he says, than there are varieties of pickles—57 varieties of pickles, compared with the president's estimate of 557 rubber experts. In addition, there are 5,557 rubber experts of the self-appointed kind, according to Mr. Roosevelt.

THREAT: Raids Hint Major Jap Attack In Southwest Pacific

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—Japan's land, sea and air activity over the northern area of New Guinea indicates that a major enemy move is impending, special dispatches from advanced bases said today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reported only normal reconnaissance and security activity in all zones.

This activity included scouting northern New Guinea and the waters off it by plane to detect movement of reinforcing Japanese planes and ships, and the maintenance of constant ground patrol contact with the Japanese who had taken Kokoda, 55 miles from Port Moresby, the big Allied New Guinea base.

It was made plain at headquarters that the security activity was a precaution against any sudden Japanese move.

Despite heavy Allied plane attacks and the harassing tactics of Allied ground patrols, the Japanese still firmly held Kokoda flying field and positions adjacent to it.

Strong Allied forces were understood to be holding the narrow mountain pass above Kokoda, leading down to Port Moresby on the south coast.

It was made known that activity of Japanese shipping along the New Guinea coast was increasing again, despite persistent Allied plane attacks. But it was not known whether the ships carried supplies or troops.

ULTIMATUM: India to Give British 'Notice' on Freedom

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The working committee of the All-India Congress party adopted a 1,200-word resolution today, demanding "withdrawal of British power so as to enable India to become an ally of the United Nations and fight aggressors," Reuters reported from Bombay.

(By United Press)

BOMBAY, India—Nationalist leaders intend to give the British Indian government a one-week ultimatum demanding immediate independence with the alternative of a civil disobedience campaign, well informed sources said today.

A member of the working committee or executive of the Nationalist All-India Congress said that the ultimatum would be sent to British authorities by Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the movement.

The ultimatum would be addressed to the Marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, it was said.

It would give him one week in which to hand India over to the Nationalists and would outline an alternative plan under which Nationalists would try to get India's 300,000,000 people behind a civil disobedience campaign despite the threat to India, China and the entire United Nations war effort, informants said.

Nationalists were said to be determined to proceed with their campaign despite the revelation that Gandhi had proposed to "negotiate with Japan" in event that India attained independence. This proposal was dropped in an independence resolution which the working committee subsequently adopted.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, member of the working committee and leading woman Nationalist, confirmed to the United Press that Gandhi would tell the viceroy the time and manner of a civil disobedience movement.

"Complete unanimity prevails among the members of the committee regarding a decision.

"We would have gone all out for the war effort. But now we Pelley was on trial with Lawrence A. Brown and Miss Agness M. Henderson, who the government charged were associated with him in a printing establishment at Noblesville, Ind.

The two remaining witnesses under subpoena are Dr. Jacob Horkelson, former Montana congressman, and Virgil D. Jordan, chairman of the national industrial conference board.

Council Backs War Industry Board, Pledges Co-Operation

Mansfield city council was on record today as being ready to co-operate in efforts to obtain war plants or "other industries of merit" for Mansfield.

Its expression of support was made in a resolution passed at council's regular meeting last night.

Eight of the 10 members were present, C. N. Shultz of the Second ward presiding in the absence of Howard G. Miller, president. Russell Porch, First ward, also was unable to attend.

Council's action in further enabling the newly-created five-man war industry board's efforts to expand the city's industrial horizons provides "development of water, sewer, and other kindred facilities which may be necessary" in encouraging manufacturing developments locally, in keeping pace with other central Ohio cities which have elaborate war industry expansion programs.

Following News-Journal publication of graphic word pictures of Mansfield's apparently lagging gait, various civic groups voted support to the War Industry board, members of council adding their individual endorsement of such a course last week. The issue was presented last night by George C. Kyle, member-at-large, and was approved immediately without one dissenting word.

With no discussion preceding balloting on the Kyle resolution, it was indicated members had previously agreed to lend full support to the issue.

Fables From the Fifties: Handsome Lieut. Charles "Chico" Stehlin, veteran of three wars at 20, was introduced to pretty Jean Shaffer at a cocktail party at the Pierre a few days ago. She eyed the RAF wings on one side of his tunic, the Free French wings on the other, noted his up-to-the-minute slang vocabulary and inquired if he wasn't an American—and what was he doing in this uniform?

"Chico" admitted he was born in Brooklyn, flew with the RAF when he was 16, flew with the French when he was 17, then fought for the Finns and again for the French. He is the only American aviator still permitted in the French flying forces, because his father had been the youngest member of the Lafayette Escadrille. And, somehow, "Chico" had also managed to fight in the Spanish war.

Jean expressed pleasure and amazement at meeting such a young hero, but "Chico" said, "You ought to meet my Dad—he's a real hero." Dad being Maj. Joe Stehlin, ex-colonel of the Lafayette Escadrille, ex-World war ace, ex-commander of the Polish and Leftish air forces, and once called the "Hero of Sheepshead Bay."

Jean said, "I'd like you to meet my dad, too," her dad being Maj. Chester Shaffer of the U. S. army, now on leave to conduct an ambulance unit for the American field service. He had served in the World war, too, driving an ambulance.

A meeting of the fathers was arranged. And when the two majors saw each other they fell into each other's arms. They had not met for 25 years—not since aviator Joe Stehlin cracked up over No Man's Land, and was rescued by ambulance driver Chester Shaffer!

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Another side of Hollywood:

Irving Lippman is a diplomat. He also is possessed of nerve, gall, patience, persistence and an indefinite capacity for "taking it." These qualities make him one of Hollywood's best "still men."

Coons

The still man photographs stars, scenes from movies, studio life. Assigned to cover a movie, he is constantly on the set. In studio jest—and sometimes in fact—he is the patsy for the assistant director who in turn is patsy for the director. In a movie production schedule no time is budgeted for "stills," important as they are in making the public aware of stars and productions. The still man is on his own, with no helpers, and nobody to blame if he doesn't turn in a full quota of pertinent pictures. His cry, "Hold it for a still," is heard after every scene.

* * *

WHEN John M. Stahl was making "Our Wife," Irving Lippman at Columbia the past nine years, uttered his usual "Hold it." He was set for his shot when Stahl protested the interruption. Lippy shot back: "Wait a minute, Mr Stahl. I don't rush you when you're working. I've got to have a little time for MY work." Stahl, floored, grinned—and after that Lippy got all the stills he wanted.

A movie still man who works steadily is well paid for his pains. Union minimum is $108 a week. Lippy, a veteran, draws well over minimum.

Los Angeles-born, Lippy used to sell papers near the corner where Frank Capra sold papers. Lippy has worked stills on many Capra films. Lippy got into movies as a boy assistant director in 1925. In those days his job meant also driving the camera car, running a second camera, shooting stills. He gave up the rest for still photography a dozen years ago.

He is buying his own home in North Hollywood, where he is an air raid warden, a Victory Gardener, a War Bond 10 per center. He and his wife dislike night clubs.

He has photographed most of Hollywood's stars, current and old. He says none of them are "tough"—if approached properly. "You just don't go in with your camera when the director is ready to jump down everybody's throat," he says.

* * *

ROSALIND RUSSELL, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Marlene Dietrich, among other stars, have contractual right to "kill" any pictures they don't like. But Lippy is just as careful with "smaller" people. "You never know when they'll be the ones to have it in their contracts," he says.

Rita Hayworth, in "You Were Never Lovelier," is the only star he knows who doesn't care to see her still pictures before release.

Week-ends, Lippy shakes pictures out of his hair. He seldom goes to movies, and he and his wife don't talk movies at home. A still man gets enough of Hollywood at work.

REGISTRATION OF NATION'S WOMEN SEEN

Informant Hints Womanpower List To Be Included In Legislation.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Machinery for a nationwide occupational registration of women, with a view to catalouging the country's total adult resources, may be included in war service legislation now being drawn for consideration by congress, creditable sources said today.

A manpower commission spokesman, who wished to remain anonymous, estimated one of every three or four housewives, between 18 and 44, may be needed to attain full war production.

Paul V. McNutt, manpower chief, has estimated that around 5,000,000 more women must be placed in jobs by the end of 1943.

Of the 53,300,000 persons now employed, according to works projects administration reports, 13,900,000 are women. Of the 1,700,000 persons given new jobs from May to June, the WPA said 700,000 were women—about 40 per cent.

A registration of women over 18 in the Detroit area will be conducted next week, and possibly will serve as a model for a nation-wide count, if the manpower commission and congress decide one is necessary.

The Detroit registration, sponsored by the war production board of the United States employment service, is expected to provide a worker reservoir that can be tapped when all available men of the area are put to work.

McNutt recently reported that a survey of occupations in 21 key war industries indicated that 80 per cent of the jobs could be done by women.

Employment of thousands more mothers in war industries now is being made possible by establishment of new war nursery schools, for which the WPA is expending a minimum of $6,000,000 throughout the country.

All men who registered under selective service now are being classified according to occupations, having answered special questionnaires.

HAPPY AS COPS BREAK UP GAME

He's Saved by Police From Irate Crap-Shooting Confectioners.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Although he begins a sixty-day jail sentence today, William Kleber was happy because police interrupted a dice game in which he was a big winner.

After a "hot" session with the "galloping dominoes" in which Kleber made point after point, a group of confectioners with whom he had been playing got suspicious. They found that neither of the cubes had any aces, fours or fives. Instead they were engraved with two deuces, two threes and two sixes.

1900 OHIO BELL WORKERS STRIKE

Halt Installation and Repair Services in Northeastern Part of State.

CLEVELAND — Approximately 1,900 installation, maintenance and repair workers of the Ohio Bell Telephone company went on strike today after breaking off negotiations for wage increases.

Installation and repair services were halted throughout northeastern Ohio but representatives of the workers promised to service lines used by police and fire departments, civilian defense centers, physicians and war plants.

Company officials said telephone service would not be seriously disrupted if the strike were settled soon. Both local and long distance calls were being handled throughout the affected area.

The wage dispute involved demands by the Ohio Federation of Telephone workers for increases to match the recent grant to employes in the "Little Steel" industry. The Bell company contends that raises already granted put telephone workers' wages on a par with those paid in "Little Steel."

The principal cities affected by the strike are Cleveland, Akron, Canton and Youngstown, all in Ohio.

Under terms of the contract signed last Jan. 12, either union or management was authorized to reopen wage negotiations after a six months period. This the union did last month, asking a 15 per cent increase over rates paid before signing the contract.

The company maintains that an increase granted on Jan. 1, 1941, brings raises given the telephone workers to a par with those awarded by the war labor board's "Little Steel" decision.

BEE INCREASE FAILS TO MEET SUGAR THREAT---CROP'S POOR

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — More Ohioans are raising bees to help avert a sugar shortage but so far poor weather conditions have kept the state's honey production at less than 25 per cent of normal, the state agricultural department reported today.

C. A. Reese, specialist in charge of the apiary section of the department's plant industry division, said that a survey of honey production in all 88 counties revealed "extremely varied" circumstances, some counties reporting an average of 75 pounds of honey per colony and others reporting no honey at all.

Cool weather and heavy rains which destroyed nectar-producing parts of plants were blamed for this year's small honey crop.

In the Miami-Mad river valleys an average of 60 pounds of honey per bee colony was reported while in the Little Miami valley the average extraction was reported at approximately 30 pounds.

Reese said that central Ohio beekeepers faced one of the shortest honey crops ever produced. In this area the honey crop was estimated at 30 to 40 pounds per colony.

Although some bee yards in the Muskingum watershed report extracting as high as 75 pounds per colony, the honey situation in the entire sector is "very discouraging," according to Reese. He said the situation now was "far more serious" than ever before.

There is little or no honey surplus in the Mahoning valley and many beekeepers in the section are feeding sugar to save their bees, it was said.

Probably as hard hit by the war as any other Mansfield social organization is the Phalanx, Y. M. C. A. fraternity. With most of the club's members right in the draft age their rolls have been cut in half by the call to service. The club which once numbered about 30 members has already lost 27 young men to the army and navy. Despite constant pledging of new members the organization is still only able to maintain a membership of about 15 now.

Vincent Greth, former Mansfielder, now a manufacturing engineer in the Cleveland works of Westinghouse, has been awarded a $100 war bond by Aero Digest for discovering a way to increase by 80 per cent the production of war-needed electric air cleaner parts. The discovery puts an old parlor trick to work, in principle, in the handling of steel plates. The old trick of blowing through a spool and making a piece of cardboard stick to the lower end of the spool was recalled by Greth, who applied the principle to huge presses. After perfecting his plan production was stepped up from 585 to 1,000 plates an hour. Greth formerly lived at 65 Hedges street.

State Patrol Checks Willard Mishap After Victim Dies.

WILLARD—The body of Walter Leonard, 55, of Chicago, was at the Fink Funeral home today while state highway patrolmen from the Norwalk sub-station were seeking a hit-skip driver who struck him down early yesterday on Route 224, four miles west of Willard.

State highway patrolmen are attempting to contact relatives of Leonard in Chicago and to reconstruct the accident in an attempt to trace the driver of the car.

CREWMEN SAY SUB FIRED ON LIFE RAFTS

Two Wounded, Four Die, Two Missing After Attack on Merchant Vessel.

(By International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—The story of how a Japanese submarine which shelled an American merchant vessel in the north Pacific returned to the sinking vessel to machinegun survivors, killing two men, was told today by crew members evacuated recently from a hospital in Alaska.

Four other crew men died of exposure soon after the attack on July 14 as they drifted for three days in a lifeboat and two liferafts, and two seamen were missing and feared dead. Two men were wounded.

The 24 survivors, all of them suffering from exposure, were picked up by a rescue craft and spent two weeks in an Alaskan hospital before returning to the continental United States.

Survivors, interviewed with the approval of the 13th naval district headquarters staff, said the submarine was sighted about 8 p. m., July 14, and that Captain Christian Evensen, the ship's master, immediately ordered the helmsman to follow a zig-zag course.

The undersea boat dived, but then reappeared and began shelling the freighter from about three miles off. It closed in on its prey, keeping up a rapid shell fire as it came, with many of the projectiles missing the ship altogether.

One shell, however, made a direct hit, splintered a lifeboat, crashed through the radio shack and wheelhouse and wrecked the rudder control, setting the ship afire.

The crew abandoned ship in the remaining lifeboat and two liferafts, M. G. McGauhey, signalman said, and as they rowed away from the blazing vessel members of the submarine crew fired on them with machine guns. The life craft were riddled.

The youthful signalman, only man able to walk after three days of torment in one of the rafts, said men within three feet of him were struck by machine gun bullets as the sub closed in on the doomed ship and its survivors.

"The sub cruised to within a short distance—it was almost dark—and opened fire on the captain's raft with a machine gun," McGauhey said. "They hit one man and killed him.

"Flames from the ship lighted up our raft, but the sub missed us. We were plain lucky. We tied the captain's raft to ours and kept rowing. We were wet through and stayed wet the whole three days.

"At the end of the third day, Kosarich spotted the masts of a ship and the men hammered on the side of the metal raft, hoping some sound detective device on the ship would pick up the signals. One man acted as cheer leader and kept repeating, 'one, two, three, let's holler together.'

"The ship turned away, but two of the men waved flags they found in the raft and the ship altered her course and put over a boat that picked us up."

Continue Search For Victims of Boat Tragedy

BAY CITY, Mich. —(INS)— The search continued today for victims of the boat wreck which Sunday night carried all but one of its 13 occupants to their deaths in one of the worst disasters in the history of Saginaw Bay, authorities said.

Eight of the victims were found yesterday as a score of boats and aircraft scoured the waters near where the sunken 30-foot power boat "Arlene" foundered after striking a submerged rock.

The bodies which were recovered were found over a wide area but generally in the same sector of the lake where the boat went down.

Sole survivor of the tragedy was Mrs. Dorothy Repke, 23-year-old mother, who through sheer determination to reach her baby who was safe ashore swam seven miles to land. During the grueling swim, the pretty woman battled wind and wave for nine hours before falling exhausted upon the beach near Point Au Gres. Her husband, Louis, was a victim.

'CHUTISTS LAND BEHIND SOVIETS IN NEW THRUST

tor near Kushchevka and an infantry formation destroyed six German tanks and killed 550 of the enemy.

"During the night . . . our troops fought the enemy in the zones of Kletskaya, Tsimyanskaya, Bielayaglina and Kuschvka," the Soviet noon communique said. "There was no change reported on other sectors of the front.

"In the Beilayaglina zone, Soviet troops engaged in heavy fighting. On one sector, the enemy succeeded in breaking through Soviet lines. Soviet troops repulsing four attacks. On one sector, Soviet troops retreated to new positions."

Lieut. Col. Nicolai Denisov reported in a front line dispatch to Red Star that the Germans had dropped 100 to 150 parties of parachutists on the lower Don front to date, in addition to tankettes and mine-throwers. He warned that the steppes were suitable for large-scale parachutist operations.

Dispatches from the front said that generally the Russians were holding the Germans in the Kuschevka area. But the enemy drive through Bielayaglina, on the Stalingrad - Novorossisk railroad, roared southwest toward Tikhoretsk, junction of the Rostov-Baku railway. If the Germans reach Tikhoretsk, they will have outflanked the Russians fighting around Kushchevka.

The Germans were reported to have concentrated enough tanks in the Bielayaglina area to attack almost continuously, with groups of 50 to 60, and new panzer reinforcements had arrived.

Dive - bombers constantly shrieked over Russian positions. The Germans dropped parachutists and bands of Nazi tommy-gunners were recklessly trying to penetrate Soviet positions. Front-line dispatches said the parachutists were being mopped up, but the Germans were bringing up still more reserves in their desperate effort to take the great Caucasian oil fields.

The battle raged day and night.

The government organ Izvestia said the odds were already overwhelming, and that the Germans still increased their pressure. It said new armored and motorized units had been brought from France.

A report that five Russian tanks had repulsed three attacks by 20 enemy tanks, supported by tommy-gunners, illustrated the odds the Red army was fighting.

The profusion with which the Germans used tanks showed that they had thrown the greater part of their panzer forces into fighting around Bielayaglina, military observers said.

The retreat around Tsimlyanskaya was the first reported in several days.

Dispatches credited the Cossacks with thwarting enemy efforts to push south around Kuschevka and said that on only one sector had the Germans gained any ground.

Soviet marines and coastal artillery defending the Sea of Azov shore were reported inflicting heavy blows on the Germans and rebuffing their efforts to pierce the Russian left flank.

Red Star reported from the Kletskaya area that the Germans have succeeded in advancing toward the Don at some points, but on the majority of sectors the Red army firmly held against constantly arriving reinforcements and uninterrupted attacks.

The battle was now in its second week and becoming fiercer. The Russians defending every foot of land and counter-attacking vigorously, have wiped out many small enemy units which penetrated their depth defenses.

On the great bend of the River Don, however, it was obvious that the Russian position was much less perilous than in the far south, where Soviet communication lines, the Soviet's major oil supply and its remaining Black Sea fleet bases were in danger.

Probably because of better communications, which allow the Russians to speed reinforcements to the Don bend battlefields, the Germans have made little progress. Communications have deteriorated with the German advance in the far south, and it is easier there for the Germans to bring up reinforcements than the Russians.

(London observers, conceding that the Caucasian situation had worsened, saw some significance in the fact that the Germans have not made their usual claims of huge numbers of Russians captured or trapped. Some military observers said there was no means presently of telling to what extent the Russian retreat was deliberate.)

Russians Reveal Purge of Spies

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—A purge of White Russian fifth columnists and German spies smuggled into Leningrad at the height of last winter's Nazi siege of the former czarists capital was revealed today by the official Communist party newspaper Pravda.

The German agents, who made contact with underground counter-revolutionary groups including former czarist officials and officers, were said to have attempted to create unrest in the beleaguered city and organize an uprising.

Many of those seized in what Pravda called a "purge of gangs of enemy agents and spies" were former White Guard (czarist) officers, magistrates and former high civil servants of the czarist regime.

Cossacks Ride To Battle Against Nazis

MOSCOW — (U.P.) — Grey haired Cossack veterans of the Don who swept the enemy out of the Ukraine 22 years ago are riding into the battle again with flashing sabres and an oath that "not one German will escape alive from the Don steppes."

"We Cossacks vow by the memory of our forefathers and by the name of the quiet Don to bar the enemy's way," said the oath of the 50 and 60-year-old cavalrymen, contained in a pledge sent to the working people of Stalingrad.

These old warriors, asking no odds from the Axis mechanized war machine, are in the middle of the fiercest fighting today in the Kushchevska and Salsk sectors south of the Don.

The government newspaper Izvestia reported that one Cossack unit battled two German panzer divisions supported by 50 tanks and many planes.

Patriot Army Kills 1,400 Axis Troops

LONDON —(U.P.)— Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch's patriot army has killed 1,400 Axis troops, wounded 600 and captured 1,000, including Germans, Bulgarians and Croats in a major battle in the Bosnian area of west-central Jugoslavia, advices said today.

Bulgarian troops were compelled to retire from the sector and heavy fighting is continuing between the Jugoslav patriots and the other Axis troops, it was said.

This latest news of the success of the patriot army came in a formal communique from Gen. Mikhailovitch's headquarters in Jugoslavia and was released today by the Jugoslav government in exile here.

have no alternative but to go our way. We can not fight for the defense of a country which is not ours yet and whose freedom is not in sight."

Congress circles intimated that a new and more comprehensive resolution was being prepared for decision by the working committee, alongside with formal endorsement of the so-called Wardha resolution demanding independence.

It was understood that Gandhi would consult committee leaders this afternoon, to advise them in high secrecy of the details of a proposed disobedience campaign intended to embarrass Britain and its defense of India.

Gandhi, spiritual leader of the Nationalist movement, and Jawaharlal Nehru, most powerful member of the working committee of the All-India Congress, issued angry statements here denouncing the publication of Gandhi's proposal to negotiate with the Japanese.

But after a meeting here last night of the working committee, or executive, it was said that plans for civil disobedience in an attempt to force Great Britain to grant Indian independence now were unchanged and that is was likely Gandhi would be given full power to act.

Close associates of Gandhi said he intended to call a one day shutdown of business in India and then later call a continuous national strike.

Congress leaders made no attempt to conceal their rage at the publication of documents seized in a police raid on the Congress headquarters at Allahabad, including Gandhi's statement that "if India were freed her first step would probably be to negotiate with Japan."

"I never even in my most unguarded moment expressed the opinion that Japan and Germany would win the war," he said. "Not only that—I often said they could not win if Britain would only once and for all shed her imperialism."

"'Liza didn't get a line in any newspaper when she crossed the ice at Ripley, so we're turning over the entire front page of this centennial edition to her and her daring feat, which has become the biggest story in the history of Ripley."

SERIES OF PATROL CAMPS TO BE CONDUCTED BY BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scouts of Mansfield and neighboring towns of the Johnny Appleseed area will be put "on their own" at a series of patrol camps to be held during the month of August at Camp Avery Hand, jr. First groups were to set up camp today.

With regular camp sessions closing last week, boys today are arriving at camp for a week's stay during which each unit of six to eight boys will do its own cooking and perform all its own camp tasks. Tents and cots are furnished at the camp but scouts bring their own food, blankets and other supplies and equipment.

Just in case Scouts run into trouble in their cooking or anything else, D. D. Montoya, area field executive, is on hand to supervise things. Montoya also has set up a program of outdoor training similar to that used at regular camp sessions.

Boy Scouts who will be in charge of the various groups holding patrol camps were especially trained for a week in June in various aspects of camp planning and administration. They received instruction in the preparation of food and menus, camp sanitation and organization, and the planning of camp programs.

AIR CORPS PLEASED AT FIRST TEST OF ONE-MAN LIFE RAFT

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON—Army air corps officers expressed satisfaction today over the first public demonstration of a new one-man life-raft designed for airplane pilots and crew members forced down on water.

Developed at Wright field, the raft made its debut recently at Indian Lake, 60 miles north, with Paratrooper David Allen as master of ceremonies.

The 24-year-old first lieutenant from Salt Lake City parachuted from a twin-motored plane wearing the deflated raft like a cushion in a packet 18x24x4 inches. It was his first leap into water and he described it thus:

"I jumped from about 600 feet and everything was all right. The water was shallow so I didn't need my 'Mae West' life preserver. I unbuckled my 'chute and ripped open the raft and inflated it. Everything worked very well."

The 12-pound raft is inflated by pulling a cord which releases gas from a large cylinder. In 10 seconds the folded rubber raft blossoms into a six-foot orange boat resembling a huge oval doughnut but with a floor in the center.

Attached is a sea anchor to prevent drift, which can be used as a bailing bucket, two wire-stiffened paddles about the size of those used in table tennis but with straps for the hands. A canteen of water and two days' rations in a waterproof tin.

CONFESSES WAR STORIES HOAX

Von Wiegand Held by FBI for Illegally Wearing Uniform.

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—(AP)—Jacob von Wiegand, 53, arrested here on a charge of illegally wearing a U. S. military uniform, has admitted his long-standing tale of exploits as a German air ace during World War I was imaginary, E. E. Conroy, assistant FBI director said.

The stories related in 1928 by "Captain Jack von Wiegand" of his purported experiences while a member of Baron von Richtofen's flying circus won him nationwide attention.

Conroy said von Wiegand disclaimed his account of shooting down 22 Allied planes, including one carrying Quentin Roosevelt, son of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Another group from Beard 2 will go through the same procedure tomorrow, meeting at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms at 11 p. m. to receive their Red Cross kits, American Legion "Fall In" books, prayer books or new testaments.

Although this contingent will meet a half hour earlier, its members will take the Erie train at 12:37 p. m. just as the group which left today.

Board II selectees will parade from the Farmer's Bank building on Park avenue to Central Park and down North Main street to Olive street, turning from there to Union station.

The third contingent will leave Friday morning at 7:45 a. m., but will make the trip by bus. Members of the contingent will meet at the Richland county courthouse at 7 a. m. to receive the articles given to departing draftees.

All three contingents leaving this week will go to Indianapolis for induction and will then be sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison for preliminary instruction.

Saltzgaber today urged all merchants to display flags on North Main street and Park avenue along the line of march. He stated that the flags could be left there overnight because during wartime, it is proper to display a flag at all times.

The Senior High school band which played for today's send-off will also play for the departure of Board 2 tomorrow. Saltzgaber said arrangements are being made to try to get the Shelby High school band to play for the departure of the Board III group Friday.

Relatives are urged to say their farewells tomorrow at the Union station and on Friday in front of the courthouse.

First of the series of parties honoring the youths from around Shelby community who joined the armed services in July, was held Tuesday night at the Shelby Inn.

About 14 youths were present as well as a number of civic guests. Mac Crawford, head of the committee planning the parties, presided over the program.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1942.

A noisy 10 per cent in a crowd can make itself sound like a majority.

Unheard remark: "Here's the book I borrowed from you day before yesterday—I always return books promptly."

The man who locked the barn after his horse was stolen has a son who doesn't remove the ignition key when he parks the car.

Warning Against Counterfeit Money

A WARNING to the public to keep on the lookout for counterfeit money has again been given by Frank J. Wilson, chief of the United States secret service, who says: "With the nation at war for its very existence, the counterfeiter has become not merely a public enemy, but a fifth columnist—if not an outright traitor."

"The history of warfare shows," he adds, "that counterfeiting has again and again been used to support military operations, and it is not unlikely that this means of attack may be used in this country by enemies of the United States."

Prevention through education has been successfully demonstrated as a way to reduce counterfeiting losses. It was found that most losses resulted from lack of knowledge about the appearance of genuine money and in the period from 1933 to 1936 Americans lost an average of $771,000 a year as victims of passers of counterfeit bills.

In 1937 the secret service opened its "Know Your Money" campaign, to teach storekeepers, clerks and other handlers of money, how to detect counterfeits, and by 1941 millions of people had been reached in this way—and, as should have been done long ago, material on the subject was introduced into standard school books for study in high schools.

Reports show that for the year ended June 30, 1942, losses by victims of counterfeit money passers were reduced 93 per cent from the 1933-1937 average, and what started as a "campaign" has now developed into a permanent program of education.

"Know Your Money"—a counterfeit bill isn't worth the paper on which it is printed. Learn to distinguish between genuine and bogus money.

Ohio Traffic Still Hums

OHIO motorists are either taking tire restrictions less seriously or have more requirement for essential driving, according to June tabulation of gasoline tax collections by the federal public roads administration.

Under this method of calculation Ohio's reduction in June driving was only 12 per cent. as compared with June 1941, while in other non-rationed states the drop reached 17 to 20 per cent and in rationed New York traffic was down 28 per cent.

Even the 12 per cent cut-down of driving in Ohio was marked by an appreciable reduction of major traffic accidents, which was also attributable, in part, to more drivers keeping within the suggested 40-mile speed limit.

While conflicting statements are still being made as to the tire situation, it appears that the sensible course for motorists is to conserve their present tires as much as possible; to avoid other than essential driving; to consider 40 miles an hour maximum speed, and to have tires inflated and examined regularly.

Books for Summer Reading

THERE'S a rather general idea that summer is the time for light reading. The porch chair and pitcher of lemonade do seem to call for the light romance or the baffling mystery story. But if summer brings a sense of leisure and relaxation, as it does to some people, isn't that the very reason why it's the appointed time for the one solid book of science or history or essays that has long been awaiting perusal? Or for the new one on the subject in which the reader has long been interested but in which he finds himself getting rusty?

Winter is likely to bring with its hard work and colder weather a sense of fatigue at the end of the day which makes it hard to read the heavier book. Summer may be just the time for it.

Summer is also the time to get started on a new subject, too. The public library is not so busy. Students are not flocking in for help with term papers, club ladies have not yet embarked on their research for next year. The librarian has more time for the reader who wants a little advice and information along his chosen line.

Reading one good, solid book a year with a fringe of easier stuff around the edges of it never hurts anybody. The mind does not stand still. It either grows or it deteriorates.

Unconsidered Billions

THE STAND taken by Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon in connection with the record-breaking $42,820,000,000 army supply bill is one that should receive public commendation. He asked for time to consider the bill, "in the name of decency and some concern for expenditure of public funds." He said, "I always try to be fair and reasonable. But here is a bill calling for an appropriation of nearly $43,000,000,000 with a 92-page report and a record of four days' hearings."

The senator objected to being required to pass on such an important measure on virtually an hour's notice. "I don't question the amounts. I am interested in a display of judgment. This is just pushing members of the senate around. We ought to have at least one day to consider this bill—a sum bigger than the cost of the last war, a sum which a few months ago was considered by many as bigger than a safe limit on the public debt."

Senator McNary is to be commended for asking "a display of calmness and judgment," instead of blindly waving the flag to cloak unnecessary, hasty action on matters so vital to the nation. With the public debt estimated at 130 billion dollars in 1943, his action may encourage closer scrutiny of future appropriation measures.

Debate Cargo-Carrying Airplanes

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Production of those cargo-carrying airplanes, designed to overcome the submarine menace by delivering war supplies by air, is promised by Henry Kaiser within ten months after he gets the contract. This is a much earlier delivery date—assuming the contract is made than anyone has even speculated upon.

It is not official. As this is writetn Kaiser has not even submitted a proposal to the government about building airplanes in shipyards, or anywhere else. But it is what he has said to officials with whom he has discussed the proposal. Before any formal proposal, Kaiser has said to officials, he wants to know several things, the most important of which is—does the government want this effort started, and, if it does, how many planes does it want?

There is no doubt that Kaiser is a disturbing figure in Washington. He was regarded for a long time practically as a crank. He had to work pretty hard to get a hearing. The best evidence of the change of attitude that has occurred is the fact that recently, when it was announced that he would speak at a luncheon of the National Press club, it was necessary to hang out the S.R.O. signs well in advance.

* * *

WHETHER Kaiser is right about freight-carrying airplanes being the solution to the submarine menace is a question which this article will not attempt to answer. Certain high officials, British as well as American, say it is a problem for the future. They talk about the amount of tonnage a thousand airplanes can carry, and the amount one freighter can carry.

They sound very convincing. It will be easier to understand the argument if we follow the practice of Lewis Douglass, who insists on converting all ship figures to "deadweight" tonnage before considering any problem.

"What we are interested in," Douglass is fond of saying, "is not how much a ship weighs, or how much water she displaces, or any one of half a dozen other details. But we are enormously interested in how much freight she will carry, and how long it will take her to get from one port to another.

He then always hastens to point out that the arm chair strategists must not assume that a ship which makes twenty knots is twice as good, for cargo delivering purposes, as one which makes ten knots. There are two complications to such simple arithmetic.

One is that the ship capable of making twenty knots is apt to take just as long to load, and just as long to unload, as the ship which can make only ten knots. The other is that the faster a ship is the more fuel she consumes per mile, so that the calculations must include how much fuel the faster ship must carry for the return voyage.

The fuel for the return voyage is one of the strongest arguments the surface-ship advocates used against the freight-carrying airplane idea. Especially as it is dangerous for a plane to land with too heavy a fuel load.

* * *

BUT — whatever the merits of the argument, Henry Kaiser is a disturbing figure. His performances so far, on shipbuilding, on concrete, even on magnesium, are jolting to the critics who said it couldn't be done.

Right or wrong on this point, it would seem that we could use a few more Kaisers!

Nature of Genius

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M NO ENGINEER. I couldn't design an egg beater. But I'm mightily intrigued by the record and ideas of a couple of lads who can toss the wheels around, namely Henry J. Kaiser and Andrew Jackson Higgins.

Mr. Kaiser, as you may remember, built Boulder dam and a few other trifling gadgets like that. Then he turned around and revolutionized our whole shipbuilding process by dispensing with the old fashioned "ways"—knocking together the huge hulks piecemeal, slamming the whole contraption together in less time than it takes to tell. And, incidentally, making himself famous overnight by his incredible output.

Andrew Jackson Higgins is another time bomb. A 200-lb.-plus hunk of genius and temperament on the hoof, and always on the hoof. Knows everything about boats and then some. Steaming ahead. Getting more things done than ten other men could even imagine.

Recently he was given the war's record contract for building ships. Laid out a program that would have equipped Mars. Then had it snatched away from him because some Big Shot said there wasn't enough material to match the blueprints. Since then, A. J. H. has roused the nation with his roars of rage.

Now, there's nothing very unusual about these two tales so far. They're typical American success stories, the sort of rugged individualism that has made America what it is, and has lent its vigor to every department of our industrial life. But there is another chapter to the story that's the payoff.

Here are two men at the height of their power, thrown suddenly into the spotlight of fame. Then confronted with handicaps that must infuriate creatures of their tremendous voltage. So what do they do? Do they sit down and whine, or race around blowing the lid? They do not. They get mad, all right, but they get mad constructively. And they come right back with a bigger and better plan.

"All right," say they in their individual lingo, "if we can't build ships we'll build something better. Ships are pretty near obsolete anyway, what with Jap and German front lines of subs lying on our eastern and western shores. What this war needs is planes. Bumper planes that will carry millions of men and tons of food and ammunition in speedway time. Planes that can fly so high that no water shark can ever grip them, and we're the boys to build them. We've got the tools. We can get around the priorities. Just give us the chance and watch us fill the sky."

And there, says I, is something greater than any ship-building record . . . greater than any machine that was ever devised. There is the American spirit, taking it on the chin and refusing to be licked. There is American genius.

For genius isn't simply the possession of a super mind . . . it's the ability to change that mind swiftly to meet the new need and emergency.

We have always had plenty of bright minds in this country; they're a dime a dozen. But a flexible mind, that's something else. A mind that can turn from its collossal accomplishment and start a new program from the bottom up, that's the rarest achievement in human progress. That's the quality that made Henry Ford and General MacArthur loom like giants and has now placed Messrs. Kaiser and Higgins in their heroic rank.

Not just to do something, but to be able to change as the new need presents itself. There's a challenge that faces every one of us today, that will determine our victory or defeat in the days to come. We needn't be engineering geniuses or strategists, we needn't be young and virile and reckless, we needn't even be clever. We may be gray-haired and bent, plugging along in the same old rut we've occupied for years, yet if we have the ability within us to follow life's variable course without whimpering, we can perform as great a service to America as any hero or scientist.

WE CAN MOVE WITH LIFE, AND INSPIRE OTHERS TO MOVE.

WE CAN KEEP AMERICA ON THE BEAM.

Timely Editorial

Not So Independent Now.

It used to be said that the American farmer was the most independent man on earth. Now the New Deal regulates and restricts him more severely year by year, dictates what must and must not be sown on his own broad acres.

For example, the producer cannot sell a bushel of the new wheat crop until he gets government permission — a Triple-A marketing card. The farmer must sow to wheat exactly the number of acres allotted to him for that purpose. If he produced more last year, the penalty was 49 cents a bushel. This year the penalty for excess production is 75 cents. Even if he feeds the surplus to hogs, the grower is penalized.

The government says to the farmer: Produce more poultry, more eggs, more pork to feed the men in military service, but if you use the best food for that purpose, and if it is in excess of what the AAA said you could grow, you are charged more than half the price of the wheat for helping win the war.—Toledo Blade.

Nazi Advance Toward Oil Fields Of North Caucasus Gaining Force

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE main German threat now is centered south and southeast of Rostov, and if the Russian left wing crumples there, the Germans will have the north Caucasus oil fields virtually within their grasp.

Sanguinary fighting still continues in the bend of the Don fronting Stalingrad, but the Russians are holding there and are making a stand which at least holds promise of stopping the Germans short of Stalingrad and the Volga.

But in the south the situation is extremely critical. The Germans, who massed enough troops there to storm strongly-defended Rostov, apparently have moved in heavy reinforcements and have advanced at one point 100 miles south of Rostov. They are striking in two spearheads toward the Kuban river and the main railroad which skirts the northern foothills of the Caucasus and forms a perfect pathway to the Grozny oil fields and along the Caspian to the principal Baku fields.

German claims to have reached the upper arm of the Kuban probably are premature and their statement that they have taken Voroshilovsk, only 10 miles north of the Baku railroad, is fantastic.

However, they have reached Kushchevka, 50 miles south of Rostov, where the Russians admit they are on the defensive and claim only to have stopped the Germans "at some points." To the east the Germans have reached Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, where the Soviet communique admits a withdrawal to new positions.

By reaching Salsk the Germans have cut the railroad leading from the Caucasus to Leningrad. It is possible for them to attempt a turning movement from there along the railroad and strike at the flank and rear of the Russians in the Kushchevka area.

That is more probable than a drive due eastward across the open Steppes to the Caspian, although the latter is feasible for a mechanized army at this time of the year.

This would be an opportune time for the Germans to attempt a third drive across the Strait of Kerch from the Crimea. Such a drive has been expected ever since their costly reduction of the fortress of Sevastopol. If they succeeded in making a crossing in force, the situation of the Russian left wing would be likely to become critical and the Russians in that area would be in danger of being surrounded from the west, north and east.

The situation is ominous and it may become apparent even in so short a time as a week or two whether the Germans are likely to succeed in this, the most threatening of their drives. The outcome may have an important bearing on the second front deliberations in London.

Threat of 'Civil Disobedience' In India Is Welcomed By Japan

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

AS THINGS now stand the coming week-end will see untold millions of Indian nationalists committed to an effort to exact independence from Britain through one of those terribly explosive civil disobedience campaigns which heretofore have resulted in bloodshed and, in the present instance, may easily develop into one of the major crises of the World war.

Pandit Nehru, who next to Mohandas Gandhi is the most powerful Nationalist leader in India, declares that the projected movement will be ratified by the All-India congress which meets in Calcutta Friday, and that the campaign probably would start in a fortnight. The Pandit says it will be "short, swift and effective."

The Anglo-Indian imbroglio represents one of the great dangers faced by the United Nations.

The beginning of this "non-violent" revolution will be a gift from the Gods to the Japanese who may be expected to take quick advantage of the situation to stage an invasion if things look favorable.

Indeed, Mahatma Gandhi has warned the British that unless they grant independence, a Jap invasion will be welcomed by discontented elements. That probably is an accurate estimate.

An important and intensely interesting development in connection with this fight, which involves the fate of nearly 400,000,000 people is Gandhi's appeal to the Indian princes to share their powers with their people and not remain tied to the "imperial chariot wheel."

This bears the earmarks of being a shrewd effort on the part of the little Mahatma to institute a war of nerves among these potentates.

Out of this situation I believe we see the beginning of a great change in the status of these 562 rulers. The bejeweled days which for centuries have dazzled the world are drawing to a close.

Watching Trends

WASHINGTON — Answering the mail orders:

T. L. M., Akron, Ohio—War damage insurance may be purchased from any one of the hundreds of fire insurance companies in the country. Under regulations laid down by the War Damage Corp., it provides full coverage for all real or personal property damaged or lost by enemy action or by our own forces in resisting enemy action. The premiums vary from less than $1 to a little more than $7 a thousand, depending upon the type of property. Geographical location has nothing to do with the premium. It's the same in Akron as in San Francisco or New York.

K. D., Memphis, Tenn.—There has been no official announcement, but the report is that you can look for a draft reclassification within the next three or four months. This probably will get a lot of men with dependents in cases where those dependents can exist on the allotment pay. It will not affect married men with one or more children actually living in the home. It will not affect men, single or married, who are essential to war industries. Each board is now supplied with a list of more than 30 industries considered essential. Some of these, however, are only essential if they are working on war contracts.

* * *

MRS. K. W. L., Pasadena, Calif.—Don't count your 1943 taxes until they are hatched. The opinion here is that the almost six billion dollar tax bill passed by the House is just the beginning. In the first place there is the Senate hurdle to clear. That there will be some revisions is a cinch. But even if these are minor, it's a fair guess that after the November elections are out of the way, there will be additional tax measures to bring next year's revenue somewhere near the $8,700,000,000 asked by the treasury. In Washington it's about an even money bet that some sort of sales tax will be enacted before the first of next year.

P. R., Trenton, N. J.—Clarifying the rubber situation at this time is an utter impossibility. Not even those government officials and industrialists in a position to be the best informed are anywhere near close agreement on the matter.

* * *

A. R. T., Mineral Wells, Texas—There is nothing in the Washington record to substantiate the claim that strikes are on the upswing. The most recent report of the labor department was that there are 17 strikes now in progress in war industries. These affect something over 10,000 men. This is about 80 per cent less than the five-year peacetime average before 1940.

H. D., Monroe, La.—I don't think there is any need at this stage of the war to worry about American machines in the air or on the ground not being as good as those of the enemy. Reports from the battlefronts where our machines are being used don't indicate any inferiority. Changes are, however, constantly being made. There probably isn't a front where our planes, tanks or guns are being used where experts are not on hand to study performance under actual battle conditions and the bugs are being knocked out as fast as they are discovered.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Buttons on Sleeves.

The buttons on the underside of the male jacket sleeve—they probably are the survival of a refinement in the ever-changing fashions in clothes that characterized the fourteenth century; but that is not all.

The story is that a fastidious French king's sensibilities were bruised because his courtiers used the underside of their jacket sleeves for a nose kerchief.

He thereupon decreed that buttons be sewed on the line of rubbing, the innovation proving a most effective preventive.

The king's gallants thus set the style for the fops of France, the rest of Europe followed suit, and buttons on sleeves became an institution, enduring to this day.

Some blame it all on Frederick the Great.

A Farmer's Diary

Let's Call It Off!

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST year, in mid-August, at a modern park in a neighboring city was held the annual reunion of Ohio residents who formerly had lived in Bedford county, Pennsylvania. It was the first year I had known about the gathering, and since I was born in Bedford county, I found much in common with many people who were there.

People had come from all over the state—hundreds of names were on the register. Cars were parked thickly about the grounds. The swimming pool and all other attractions for children were well patronized. There was an ample dinner at noon with free coffee and ice cream . . . each family brought a basket.

I suppose I talked too much. I do, sometimes. They elected me president of the affair, and my wife secretary. Now it is again time to send out printed invitations.

"What shall we do about the reunion?" the secretary asked me the other day. "They've held it every year for 20 years . . . people count on seeing each other, once a year at least. But it'll mean tires and gas and some expense for everyone . . . I believe I'll write and ask the committee who served last time how they feel about it."

So she wrote. And the other fellows said they were glad we had wondered, because they'd been wondering, too, whether in all patriotism it wouldn't be better to discontinue the plans for this year at least . . . and they tossed the decision back into our hands and said it was up to us.

She and I have decided to call off the reunion for this summer.

It's a small matter—but the whole job of winning this war is made up of many small efforts. Let's save our tires and our gasoline and the cost of all that delicious food to buy war bonds and stamps. Let's write to our friends, and think about them . . . then stay at home and hoe!

For more is at stake this year than even the hills and quarries and fertile plains of Bedford county. Keystoners and Buckeyes and Hoosiers must team up to make right choices. And from those boyhood hills of old Bedford county we want nothing to come that is un-American. We'll all stay home!

ROYAL REGAL GARDEN CLUB HAS LUNCHEON

Mrs. LeRoy Holden and Mrs. Paul Ackerman Entertain Tuesday at Former's Home; Garden Visited.

LUNCHEON was served at a large table on the lawn when Mrs. LeRoy Holden, 166 Wolfe avenue, was hostess at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to 18 members and one guest of the Royal Regal Garden club. Assisting Mrs. Holden was Mrs. Paul Ackerman. The guest was Mrs. J. W. Holborn. A lovely bouquet of garden flowers centered the luncheon table.

The business session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Wilmer Gross. Each member responded to roll call by naming her favorite flower. A paper on garden news was given by Mrs. Alex Grassick and was followed by a general discussion.

Mrs. Otis Sowash gave an interesting talk entitled, "Flocks of Phlox." The group then visited the attractive garden at the home of Mrs. M. J Cairns, Harter avenue. Plans were made to meet Sept. 1 at the home of Mrs. Amos Day, West Fourth street. Mrs. Sowash will be associate hostess. Each member is to bring her own flower arrangement for the occasion. The arrangements will be judged at the meeting.

BRING HER VITAMINS

Husbands who find themselves in the doghouse because of the little woman's injured feelings may be on the spot simply because the Mrs. needs more vitamins. According to experiments performed at a leading university, short tempers, easily-hurt feelings and tearfulness, can often be blamed on lack of vitamins. Married men will be glad to know that supplements of the right vitamins have been known to correct such conditions in from 20 minutes to 20 hours.

BETTY WAAC: Army Life Holds No Dull Moments

By GEORGE S. MILLS
(Wide World Features)

FORT DES MOINES, Ia.—"A girl will do everything in the army but carry a rifle."

That's the way Captain Gordon C. Jones, director of training, puts it in describing the scope of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. The first 440 candidates for the WAAC officers' training school reported here last month.

The captain might also have added that Miss Betty WAAC will develop plenty of muscle in the initial eight weeks' training course. The tentative schedule calls for an hour and a half's brisk exercise on the ordinary day, including close order drill, calisthenics and athletics.

She also will have to learn half a dozen or more bugle calls which say "You've got to get up," "Food's ready," "To the colors," "Lights out," "Taps" and the like. Not to mention such things as getting up, dressed, bed made and quarters arranged, all in half an hour.

School officers are not worried over the girls having too much excess energy to expend over the week-ends One officers said the schedule is so tough that when Saturday rolls around "most of them either will be too tired to leave camp or will feel the need for further study."

"This is a competitive proposition," he said, pointing out that not all candidates will be commissioned as officers.

As a general thing, Betty will be on her own Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday, although she probably won't be allowed to leave the city of Des Moines. She will be permitted to wear civilian clothes off the post. When she leaves, she will have to sign out, and when she returns she will have to sign in.

Here is a tentative day in Betty's first week of life in the army:

6 a. m.—Reveille wakes her and more than 30 other girls from their regulation army cots in one of the large rooms of the renovated red brick barracks. In 30 minutes hair must be combed, face washed uniform donned, bed made, equipment put away. She will have a wall locker for her clothes.

6:30—Mess call sounds and she hurries to the mess hall where she picks up her breakfast cafeteria style

7:30—Close order drill, 25 minutes of it. Colonel Don C. Faith, the school's commanding officer, says first drill work will be by squads. A masculine noncommissioned officer will act as instructor, but feminine group leaders will be named as soon as possible.

Miss WAAC's first drill instruction will concern the position of the soldier. She will learn right face, left face, about face and the like. Since she is not going to take a bead on any enemies, she will not be exposed to the manual of arms.

7:55—Drill ends.

8:05—She settles back to listen to a 45-minute lecture on military discipline, customs and courtesies.

9—(Gee, doesn't it seem a long time since 6.) Another 45 minutes of military discipline and customs. This session is labeled "practical work" as contrasted with the preceding lecture period.

It's time out for the next 20 minutes and, presumably refreshed, Betty then goes into a 45-minute class on "The proper wearing and care of the uniform."

11—A 45-minute physical training period starts, featuring calisthenics or mass games conducted by a feminine director of athletics. The games are designed to bring out in the candidate her team work possibilities.

11:45—Time out

12:15 p. m.—Mess call.

1—Assembly.

1:10—Nearly two and a half hours of lectures designed to prepare Betty to qualify as a leader for training her rank-and-file sisters next fall.

3:55—Another close order drill session.

4:15—Recall is sounded. This session may be used at times for calisthenics.

Betty has the good part of the next hour to prepare for "retreat" when the flag is lowered.

After dinner she won't have the evening off. Far from it. The schedule calls for a two-hour study period in the evening.

10:45—The call to quarters sounds and weary Betty goes to bed (if she hasn't already done so).

11—Taps sounds and the fort is quiet until reveille at 6 a. m. begins another day.

Betty WAAC may not always rightfully blame a man for waking her with reveille notes each morning. Eventually, even the buglers for the school will be women.

The course of study will vary from time to time to hurry the candidates through the various phases of the program.

The schedule for the first candidates has been intensified, the officers said, because the WAAC staff wants to send 27 service command companies to assignments in the nation's nine corps areas by Jan. 1. The companies, each composed of 150 officers and auxiliaries, will be limited to such specialist groups as switchboard operators, stenographers, typists, clerks and other administrative workers, and staff car chauffeurs.

Faithful to Her Fans

BETTE DAVIS—First Lady of Hollywood—has set herself the arduous task of autographing pictures of herself which fans request. The fact that she always insists on carrying out her duty, as she sees it, is no doubt part of her New England upbringing. Her next starring vehicle is Warners' "Now, Voyager." The cast includes Paul Henreid, Claude Rains, Bonita Granville, Gladys Cooper, John Loder, Lee Patrick, Michael Ames, Charles Drake, David Clyde and Frank Puglia. "Now, Voyager," was directed by Irving Rapper.

Soldier Is Concerned Over Wife

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

In your column the other day I read a moving letter about an unmarried girl you offered to help get into a maternity home. When I was inducted into the service neither my wife nor I knew she was going to have a baby, and while I have sent her what money I could, I'm afraid it's not enough to see her through her confinement. Is there a hospitalization service for soldiers' wives?

PRIVATE X.

Your wife should apply to the nearest camp, post or fort, to the city in which she lives and ask to be referred to Army Emergency Relief immediately.

Sea Is His Choice.

I'm a seaman in the U. S. merchant marine. I've been going with a girl about three years, and we had hoped to marry soon, but I keep putting it off because I don't think it's fair to her to marry.

Another question which bothers me is that her parents do not think I'm good enough for her, just because I'm a sailor. I make a good salary, with my war bonus, and have a sizable bank account. I know I have enough money. Can you please help me?

I just can't give up the sea. My father was a sea captain, my grandfather was in the sea service, and so was my great-grandfather, so you might know my love for the sea is greater than anything else.

I have passed the test for officers training school and expect to go to the academy soon. As a career, the sea is my choice.

JUST A SAILOR.

If your girl had been someone you met only a week ago, the arguments you advance against marrying her would have more weight with me. But after a three-year courtship and engagement, it seems to me this girl knows her mind and her loyalty to you should be taken into consideration.

As for her family not thinking you're good enough to marry her, that seems silly in times like these. You've passed the test and are going to the Officers' Training school. What do they want for their daughter?

* * *

Soldier Must Have Courage.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Soon after I enlisted in the army, I married a girl I had loved for a long time, but I didn't tell my parents. My insurance policy is made out to my mother, but now that I'm married I think my wife should have some of the insurance, should anything happen to me.

How can I break the news to my parents that I'm married and that I want to change my policy to include them all? W.

From the number of letters I have received along the same lines as yours, my dear boy, I've come to the conclusion that it requires greater courage to face parents and confess a secret marriage than it does to face bullets.

You'll just have to write a letter to your mother and father, tell them of your marriage and say that you are including your wife as a beneficiary in your insurance. Then decide what amount you will allot her.

Train Child To Like Cod Liver Oil

By GARRY MYERS, Ph.D.

"My doctor told me to give my baby cod liver oil once a day."

"Yes, my doctor gave the same advice to me about my girl of two, but she just won't take it."

One constantly hears mothers making these remarks. How absurd! I know of two boys, eight and 10, who quarrel over who is to get the largest spoonful of cod liver oil.

Parents who begin early with the infant meet no difficulty, except when they or some other member of the family offer bad suggestions.

Although it may seem more economical to buy cod liver oil by the gallon or quart, to do so is not practical. It may deteriorate and grow rancid. Better get it in small bottles and keep it fresh and cool. Any oil seems to you and me more distasteful when it is warm than when it is cool.

Over-eager mothers who do not keep in close touch with their physician may give the child much more cod liver oil than necessary.

Now suppose you have a child of two or three or older who needs cod liver oil, and who seriously objects to taking it. How shall you proceed. If you disguise it in orange juice or other necessary food you may succeed temporarily, only to make matters worse, to teach the child forever to dislike the food in which the cod liver oil has been disguised.

A better way may be to persuade the child to take it from a spoon, offering him only a few drops at first and increasing the amount gradually.

First offer it to the child under the most favorable conditions. If your inducement does not work and he refuses, cease your efforts then. Remove it and say nothing. At a later time in the day have a good assistant available. Pour a small portion in the spoon, out of the child's sight; then as the assistant gently, but firmly, seizes the child and prevents its struggles, put it into him as skillfully and quickly as possible.

Incidentally, attract the child's attention to something he will respond to, but be sure not to give him a lecture on the value of cod liver oil or how he should do what you want him to do. Say nothing. Do nothing. Next time proceed in like manner, and continue in this fashion until he volunteers to take it alone. He will after several time, provided you are skillful, and go about it calmly.

A chart showing desirable hours of sleep for children may be had without cost by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York city, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

MARY gave Stephen Redfield no chance to answer me at once, for she could not resist the opportunity to bedevil her leading man.

"Why, Auntie Madge!" she lilted, with a mirthful, provocative devil in her voice. "Do you mean that you aren't going to need a big strong man to defend you if that old man, whom you believe to be a disguised young one, comes over and asks you to go over to his table? Suppose he tries to carry you off!"

"You really ought not to go over there alone," Olina chimed in, and I caught a subtle note of amusement in her voice also, as she glanced at Stephen Redfield from under her long lashes.

Redfield tried hard to rise to the occasion.

Redfield Wants To Go

"I think I would better go with you if he does ask you to go to his table," he said. "Or don't you think it would be better, if he does come over, to tell him you do not wish to talk to him?"

"But I do wish to talk to him." I persisted, "and I insist that each of you must play up to me when he comes over. Have I your promise?"

Three pair of eyes looked at me with distinctly varying expressions, but only in Stephen Redfield's did I see reluctance, also in his manner a furtive cowardice which I did not think was physical, although he is in no sense a brave man.

I guessed that on this occasion his particular haunting fear was that something might occur to break down his own masquerade and betray his association with the subversive activities of his relatives and comrades.

Mary's beautiful eyes held no fear, nor did those of Princess Olina. Instead, amusement was mirrored in them, and both girls patently were ready for anything.

While Olina was calmly waiting, Mary was plainly agog with excitement, her cheeks flushed and her eyes fairly dancing.

Redfield Promises

But mindful of my caution, neither answered me. Both looked at Stephen Redfield, waiting for him to speak.

I too waited until my patience was exhausted, then spoke sharply.

"I am waiting, Mr. Redfield, for your promise," I said, and he started violently.

"Oh, I'm sorry," he said, patently trying to put the best face he could on the matter. "I promise to play up, of course. But," he added in his most impressive stage manner, "I wouldn't be doing my duty unless I registered an emphatic protest. If you talk to that man, I am exceedingly afraid that you will regret it."

"That was a splendid effort, Steve," Mary told him provocatively, wrinkling her nose at him. "Regular second act stuff. But I warn you that it's absolutely wasted. When Auntie Madge really makes up her mind, she never changes it.

"So it's a good thing you promised, and I'm following suit right now. How about you, Lina?"

"Of course I promise to play up," Olina replied. Then, furtively watching the pseudo old man at the other table, I spoke under my breath.

"Please be careful to betray no surprise or agitation," I said. "The old man is getting up from his chair."

"My back is toward him," Mary whispered excitedly, "so please tell me quickly. Is he coming in this direction?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

SUIT LENGTHS A GUIDE

In many hands, the guide to correct play is the length of the various suits in the holdings of your opponents. By keeping track of them, you can sometimes save yourself from taking a chance on a finesse which would not win, and substitute for it a sure-thing play which either makes your contract for you or beats the enemy's project.

That was just natural bidding by North and South. If they had used some one of the artificial conventions, which could have shown that the side held all of the aces and all of the kings, they might have lodged themselves in a grand slam, especially since they also held two queens and two jacks. It is a good thing they didn't, as South worked like a Trojan to make his small slam.

West's lead of the diamond 8 could not possibly have been a fourth-best, as only two higher ones were out of sight to South. Hence he counted East for at least four diamonds. With some breaks needed, he took the heart K and tried the J finesse successfully. The drop of East's 10 made him count West for an original four of this suit. Planning a lead-thrower, he then set out to get West out of all suits except spades, if possible in case, clubs did not break.

The diamond Q, club to the Q, diamond K discarding a spade from dummy, and the club A and K bringing a spade discard from West, showed that East originally had four diamonds, four clubs, two hearts and three spades and West the remainders. Hence West now had the heart Q and three spades. So South abandoned the idea of any spade finesse and led his heart 6 to the Q. West had only three spades left and had to lead into the A-K-J, giving South the last three tricks and his contract, with exactly three tricks in each suit.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If South wins the third heart trick, how should he play the rest of this deal for 3-No Trumps?

CHAPTER XX

"My wife, Audrey, in Denver with Morley?" Gordon groaned audibly, gripping the edge of the kitchen table.

Mrs. Davidson was solicitous. "Yes, Mr. Blake, she left a few days ago—and she told me nothing, except what I've just told you about Denver. She went with Leslie Curtis, and all her letters go to her care of Mr. Morley. That was her first husband, wasn't it?" She played nervously with her cook's white apron.

Gordon sagged, and after a minute's silence, added hopefully, "She didn't leave any word, any message at all for me, did she?"

"No sir, she didn't," answered the cook sadly.

"And Oliver, the butler?"

"He was fired. I was glad she did it. He was nasty to her maid, Petty, sweet girl, and then hit that nice English boy, Leslie. You look as if you'll be wantin' a pot of hot tea, Mr. Blake."

"No, thank you," he said, and walked slowly out the kitchen door, through the long, shadowy pantry to the sunshine outside.

* * *

His thoughts were bitter. A half hour before, he had been bubbling with eagerness, excited to tell her the good news gathered on a four-week hunt, picking up the loose threads from which Clifford Morley's motley past had been woven. He had hoped that when he entered Moonhollow, he would truly be entering the portals of Paradise.

Gordon had left Denver the day after returning from that last visit to Morley's sepulchral Callada road home where he had seen the luminous animals which had died in the same room as Morley's first wife, Laurie.

These animals confirmed Gordon's suspicion and decided him to delve farther into Morley's past; he started out immediately. The trail led to miners' shacks; miners who had known Laurie Iverson, and who talked to him of her strange death after she had married the dark, thin-faced man.

Back through company file cards to dig out pieces of information about the sly, putty-faced Oliver who had been Morley's crony, into radium laboratories. He now possessed a story to tell Audrey that he hoped would dismiss Morley from her life forever. But his work had taken him too long. He was too late. Morley had Audrey in his arms while he was laboring to win her. He had lost out, failed, in the most important thing that he would ever have to do, save a woman, the woman he loved from a horrifying calamity.

His lagging footsteps took him toward the garden. He headed toward the sun that was hanging like a witch's fireball far out over Long Island Sound, noting only vaguely how the formal flower beds were set against the background of natural woodland and sunk to a gentle slope of the land below the flagstone terrace; land alive and glowing with the magic touch of spring. He put his face close to the clusters of lacy, wistaria blossoms, breathed deeply of their sweetness, light and clinging — wistful, and remembered how she had loved them.

He recalled how she used to say, "Hello, there Gordon."

He remembered how he used to walk silently by her side, pleased with her feminine trills as she pointed out her garden . . . "I love it, Gordon. Look, and it's all ours."

He turned away abruptly, went to the fieldstone wall that separated the lawn from the stretch of white sand that merged with the greenish water.

Further out, it changed to dark blue, aripple with white waves. The waves whispered to the shore, insisting, like a lover.

He looked far out. He remembered when he had watched there, after a night of loving—he had almost seen mermaids combing their hair—out where the clouds lay on the sea.

He clenched his hand, and slapped it into his open palm.

"Let her hate you, but tell her the truth about this man. You must. She has a right to know. Morley, get ready for a showdown."

An hour later he was on the evening special headed back to Grand Central. He rushed across the street for a plane reservation and in another hour was waiting at La Guardia field for his plane west.

The clerk at the Denver House was surprised—but pleasantly so.

"Glad to have you back with us, Mr. Lewis—it's been three weeks since we saw you last, hasn't it"

"Four, to be exact."

"Back here to write some more articles?"

"Maybe—Any callers or mail?"

"About four weeks ago Mr. Morley called from the hospital. He wanted to know where you had gone. He's phoned several times since."

"What did you tell him?"

"I didn't know; I really didn't because you hadn't told me."

"Right. But if he calls now, see that I get him. I want to see him—very much."

Gordon spent most of that afternoon with Hob Cresswell at the big-sized newsman's office. At Gordon's request Cresswell put in a routine call to Willoughby hospital.

"Mr. Morley left two weeks ago," he was told.

"Ask where he's gone."

Cresswell spoke into the 'phone, swung his leonine head toward Gordon.

"She doesn't know, Brad."

"That's all then. I have a hunch, Hob, he went to his house in the valley. May I borrow your car again?"

"Why didn't you buy it? Sho' used it enough." The big man grinned. "Go ahead, writin' man."

It was dusk before Gordon turned the car north at the County building and headed along Callada road.

He followed the valley to the north toward whitecapped mountains, their shoulders darkening in the early evening shadows.

When Gordon reached the fork of the road, he turned left, knowing that the house would be on the left now, the first one. He drove in low gear, his eyes searching for the grim, dark house, where Morley and Oliver had lived, and Laurie Iverson had died.

He saw it looming beyond the barrier of pine, fir, and bayberry that fronted the road. He stopped his car at the driveway entrance, walked between the two scowling stone lions, stopped short. They were freshly painted, white. He walked ahead now, lightly, on the grivel drive, stood still, felt his eyes open, his jaws drop in amazement.

* * *

During the four weeks Gordon had been away, someone had transformed the place. Even in the moonlight, he could see that the ragged shrubbery had been trimmed, the picket fence painted; flowers bloomed, the re-painted house gleamed, the shutters were open, and lights glowed in the windows. It had an entire new, and attractive cloak, as if it had dressed itself for a bride. Gordon's eyes and muscles tightened, and a shiver of apprehension went through him, apprehension that something unpleasant was brewing.

The three-towered rectangular mansion reared its peaks proudly again to the slate-colored sky. He saw that it again had picturesqueness.

The front was no longer rusty colored, but ornamented with bright, odd figures, half Flemish, half English, scrambled with occasional Victorian fretwork and gingerbread design, glistening with creamy paint. On every side of its three towers were several smaller chimneys.

"That house wasn't destined to be bright," said Gordon to himself. He walked up to the huge door with its tiny panes at the top.

He stood silent, waiting before he knocked on the door.

GALION TAKES FIRST ACTION ON BIKE LAW

Council Gives First Reading To Licensing Ordinance at Tuesday Session.

GALION—Taking the first steps toward the licensing of bicycles in Galion, the members of the city council heard the first reading of an ordinance which would provide for city regulations of the two-wheeled vehicles when they met Tuesday night.

Under the plan as it has been presented bicycle owners would submit their application for license to the police department and upon payment of twenty-five cents would receive a metal plate to be attached to the rear of their vehicle. Licenses will be issued from July 1 to July 1 of the following year.

Before issuance of such license tags, police officials will ascertain ownership, as well as necessary safety equipment on the bicycle. It will be necessary for the bicycle to be equipped with headlight, tail-light and horn or bell. The passage of the ordinance will also necessitate the enforcement of regular traffic regulations upon operators of the bicycles.

Also at the Tuesday night meeting of the council it was voted that the bonds of the municipal swimming pool be redeemed and paid on within 30 days notice. The claim of C. F. Edler, with regard to payment of damages on a building which was damaged by the cable of a traffic light was recognized and passed for payment.

With the completion of the construction of city sewers on seven city streets, the council passed an assessment ordinance in which it was authorized to levy special assessments on each lot bounding the improved thoroughfares Streets included in this assessment are: Walnut street from Erie railroad tracks to First avenue; Murry street from Walnut street to Harding Way East; Pershing avenue from South street to South Market street; South Pierce street from Dawset road to Wood street; South Riblet street from Dawset road to Wood street; Wood street from Pierce street to South street; Hess street from Kroft to south city limits.

A scheduled oratorical contest between John Tucker, of Lucas and Attorney A. S. Beach, of Mansfield, both of whom were to present "old time" selections, did not materialize when the Mansfield attorney failed to appear at the reunion.

First Accepts Resignations of Instructors at Junior High School.

GALION — After accepting the resignations of A. L. Cattabiani and Milo Brown, teachers in the Galion Junior high school, the Galion board of education employed two more teachers to help fill their teaching positions still left vacant.

The teachers hired were Mrs. Everett Shirk, of Mt. Gilead, a gradluate of Defiance college, who has had three years teaching experience in Mt. Gilead. In hiring Mrs. Shirk the board relaxed its rule against married teachers, to the extent of hiring married women whose husbands are in the armed forces. ASHLAND—The plan to have Ashland county residents register for sugar for canning at voting precincts has been cancelled and a mail-in plan adopted. Only those who possess War Ration may apply for their canning allotments by mail. The application will be mailed to the rationing board at either Ashland or Loudonville depending on the home address of the applicant with a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The special sugar purchase certificates will be mailed back. LACK OF FUNDS HAMPERS WORK OF MILLERSBURG CITY COUNCIL

MILLERSBURG—When Millersburg fire department answers a fire call again they will be better prepared than in the past due to the receipt of ten rubber coats announced by Fire Chief Gordon Barton at the regular meeting of council Monday evening.

The session was exceptionally brief as little money is available for immediate work and until another distribution is received there will be only the most necessary work done.

Councilman Earl Marchand reported that although a number of reunions scheduled for Millersburg municipal park had been cancelled there still remains several for the month of August. There have been around 40 reunions and picnics held there this year, Mr. Marchand said, which was considered favorable considering existing travel handicaps. The largest event scheduled is the 4-H club picnic which will be held August 20. The entire park is reserved for this event.

Mayor Robert Hallam reported $31 collected in fines and swimming pool receipts from July 20 to July 31 inclusive amounted to $23.80. Receipts for the entire month totaled $93.35. The pool will be open until Labor day.

Bills aproved totaled $708.59 but part will be held up until a distribution is received for their payment.

FIND TRACTOR ABANDONED IN SHELBY WOODS

Thieves Strip Tires and Rims From Vehicle Before Leaving It.

SHELBY—A truck tractor stolen earlier this week from the Swisher lumber mill on the Vernon road, southwest of the city, today had been found abandoned in a woods two miles from the mill.

Four almost new tires and wheel rims were removed from the tractor by thieves before leaving it.

The tractor was found in a woods on the Keinath farm in Jackson township. Other equipment carried on the tractor besides the tires was also missing. O. H. Swisher, manager of the mill, placed the loss at $350.

The tractor had been stolen from a garage on the mill ground along the Vernon road, one mile southwest of the city. The lock on the building was broken open on the front door to gain access to the tractor.

A resident living along State Route 61 said that he saw the tractor on the road Sunday afternoon. The theft of the tractor was not discovered until an employe of the mill went to the garage for it Monday.

LUCAS SCHOOLS NEED TEACHERS

Four High School Instructors Needed Before Classes Start Next Month.

LUCAS—As the result of the resignations of two additional high school teachers, submitted late last week, Lucas school officials are confronted with the emergency task of securing four new high school instructors before the opening of school early next month.

Latest to resign from the Lucas faculty were Miss Esther Price of Alexandria, English teacher, and Mrs. Phyllis Evans of near Mt. Vernon, vocational home economics instructor. Miss Price resigned to accept a position in the Tippecanoe City schools, while Mrs. Evans has accepted a teaching position at Centerburg.

Due to resignations submitted earlier in the summer, vacancies also exist in the music and commercial departments, according to Supt. E. M. McCullough.

With the employment of Mrs. Dorothy Miller of Mansfield as teacher for the fifth and sixth grades, the Lucas grade teaching staff has been completed. Mrs. Miller succeeds Mrs. Ruth Varga of Mansfield who resigned recently from the local faculty.

Its native habitat is in the Andes of South America, although they have since become almost extinct. "At the present time," he said, "they are raised principally in United States and Canada."

Sawyer's ranch, located in Bucyrus, has approximately 16 animals, and most of the animals raised there are for breeding purposes.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10c and 25c.

IS THERE ANY GOOD REASON?

These are doubtful times. War time taxes are sure to rocket to unknown heights. Never before in all its history has our county government required so much as now the services of tried, experienced men. Never before has it been so much demanded that our public offices be occupied by men who have proved their ability to spend wisely the taxpayers' money. Your county is out of debt. It is operating within its income, residents' interests have been advanced on every hand.

Is there any good reason — any unselfish reason, if you please— why this should not continue?

When you cast your vote for C. L. Mitchell, you vote for continuation of this policy—for sensible spending of your money.

Westies Capture First Game In City Softball Series

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Schools that lost coaches during the grasshopper season that preceded the Aug. 1 deadline for contract jumping have been placed on a very sad spot by the wartime shortage of athletic tutors in the state of Ohio.

They are now left to the tender mercies of rival boards of education who may not be in the mood to release their coaches for other jobs.

And the sorriest aspect of the present picture is the fact that most of the schools which now find themselves without coaches, spent the summer sitting pretty with athletic staffs completely filled.

* * *

Last spring the papers were full of items reporting that this coach and that had enlisted in the navy physical education program, or in the army as a physical director, or had otherwise been called up for military service.

These recurrent items meant that dozens of vacancies were created in the athletic staffs of Ohio high schools. And the usual replacements of young athletes just out of college weren't to be had. The young fellows were joining the armed forces too.

* * *

Be still, you rat, shut up, you roach,
It's not right to say: "Put me in, coach."
So cut the quips and can the chatter,
This predicament is no laughing matter.

* * *

So what did the vacancy-filling schools do? They spent the summer looking for available coaches, who somehow weren't.

Now the state department of education has a rule forbidding teachers to jump their contracts after Aug. 1.

Faced with this deadline, the coach-hunting schools upped the ante on their offers to coaches who already had jobs, and the papers were full during the last week of July with items like this: "Coach so-and-so today resigned to become coach at such-and-such." And new vacancies were created for the schools that had been sitting pretty, and no time left in which to enter the market.

* * *

In this section Marion has three vacancies to fill, following Bill Williams' jump last week to Columbus University school. Roy McKinley jumped from Fredericktown to Wilmington. Carl Hopkins left Mt. Gilead to become football coach at Delaware. Randall Motts, assistant coach at Bucyrus, is now at Rocky River. Mt. Vernon wants someone to replace Larry Swackhamer who went to Shelby.

Fredericktown would like to have Donald Dunham, Plymouth coach, but Richland School Superintendent Boyd Robinson probably would frown on that move. He's still looking for coaches for Butler and Shiloh.

* * *

And who will succeed Al Fendrick as basketball coach at Madison since his resignation as cage mentor last spring? "Why, I will," grinned Al when I asked him. And thus a vacancy is filled.

Twi-night Tilt Ends On Dimout

Giants Saved Defeat When Lights Go Out.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK fans may never like "twi-night" baseball, but they are now ready to admit that the dimout plays no favorites.

Twice in two nights the struggles of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants have been prematurely ended by the army regulations which require that floodlights must be extinguished an hour after sundown.

* * *

Monday this rule helped beat the Giants 7-4 when darkness smothered a promising rally in the last half of the ninth-inning —to the violent displeasure of a crowd of 57,305 fans assembled for the benefit of army relief.

* * *

Last night, however, the switching off of the Polo Grounds lights erased a four-run tenth-inning outburst by the Dodgers and gave the Giants a 1-1 tie which the teams will play off Sept. 6.

Peewee Reese, the Dodgers' little shortstop, hit a home run inside the park with the bases loaded to kayo Fiddler Bill McGee in the tenth with none out, but it didn't count because the inning never was finished.

The same teams meet in their third successive twi-night game tonight, but this time across the city in Brooklyn.

Although the Dodgers didn't win, their National league lead was extended to 10 full games, their largest margin of the season, because the St. Louis Cardinals were set down 4-3 at Cincinnati.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Pirates captured a 2-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs on Frankie Gustine's only hit of the day, a single with two on in the 11th inning. Bob Klinger held the Cubs to seven hits.

* * *

At Philadelphia Jim Tobin limited the Phils to five hits, but was beaten 4-2 because the only runs the Boston Braves scored were on Tobin's own homer with a mate aboard in the seventh inning. This was the big righthander's sixth circuit clout of the year and tied Hal Schumacher's National league record for homers by a pitcher. In winning, old Si Johnson pitched seven-hit ball.

The New York Yankees were beaten 4-3 in a night game at Washington. Each team made seven hits, Sid Hudson going the route for the Senators, but errors, three by the world champions and two by Washington, helped decide the game.

* * *

Phil Marchildon, the standout hurler of the last place Philadelphia Athletics, held the Boston Red Sox to four hits to achieve his 13th triumph of the year by a 6-4 score.

* * *

Rudy York hit his 16th homer but the Detroit Tigers were beaten 5-4 by the Chicago White Sox in a loose pitching battle between two old-timers, Ted Lyons and Tommy Bridges.

Cleveland at St. Louis was postponed.

Harder Picked For Night Tilt

Tribe's Hold on Second Place Tightened By A's.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. —(INS)— Mel Harder was Manager Lou Boudreau's choice today to pitch against the St. Louis Browns tonight as the Cleveland Indians saw their hold on second place strengthened through no effort of their own.

* * *

The Indians and Browns were prevented from playing last night's scheduled game by unfavorable weather but the Boston Red Sox obligingly lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-4, to give the Indians a one-game lead in second place.

* * *

Al Hollingsworth, rejuvenated southpaw veteran from the National league, will oppose Harder tonight on the mound. Mel will be after his tenth victory of the season.

DUCKY RETURNS AS WITTENBERG COACH

SPRINGFIELD —(UP)— Wittenberg college's football and basketball destinies today passed into the stewardship of Carl F. "Ducky" Schroeder, one of its athletic heroes of some 15 years ago.

Schroeder was appointed to the position left vacant when T. Williams Stobbs resigned to accept a commission in the U. S. Navy.

* * *

Schroeder was assistant football and basketball coach at Mount Union college last year. He was a member of Wittenberg's football teams in 1926, 1927 and 1928, the latter two of which won the Buckeye conference championship.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Fast time pastime: While fans still are talking about the sudden end of the Giant-Dodgers benefit game the other evening it seems like a good idea to point out that clubs can and do finish games in a lot less than two hours and 25 minutes. . . . The Sally league—"mother of the minors, cradle of the great"—has the same sort of dimout problem and Prexy E. M. Wilder reports that by barring all stalling they have cut the average time to about an hour and a half. . . . "As long as we can hold this record, the fans, the officials and everybody else concerned are satisfied," he adds. . . . Only official action to bring about this speed-up was a ban on mass arguments, but we understand a lot of the wasted time between innings has been cut out, too.

THREE SHUTOUTS SCORED IN MAD-A

ZANESVILLE — (AP) — The hard driving Dayton Ducks, who knocked Canton out of third place in the Mid-Atlantic league two weeks ago, nudged Erie out of second spot last night. Dayton holds a half-game lead over the Sailors.

The Ducks blanked Zanesville 6 to 0, while Charleston whitewashed Erie 7 to 0. Canton made shut-outs unanimous by taking a 1-0 decision from Springfield.

Lilacs Larrup Hiett's Posies

News-Journal Employes Blossom as Softballers.

The smell of arnica, liniament and rubbing alcohol pervaded The News-Journal building today, and the groans of N-J employes as they discovered new aches and pains that could be heard as far away as Central park

But the gloating cheers of the third-floor workers could be heard even farther, and brought no comfort to the red ears of the first floor employes. A 22-to-8 softball victory blasted last evening at Johns park by the third floor denizens was the cause of all this hullabaloo.

* * *

Seems the ageing, and perhaps one-time athletic N-J employes fancied themselves as softball players. The heat may have been responsible for this sudden mass insanity.

* * *

So Advertising Manager Gil Hiett rounded up a team of his first floor neighbors, dubbed them Hiett's Hyacinths, and immediately challenged Managing Editor Don Lindsay to collect an aggregation on the third floor, which would be known at Lindsay's Lilacs, and go forth and do battle at the softball.

The battle was held by these sweet-smelling posies last evening, with equipment donated by the Y. M. C. A., Mansfield Athletic Supply, and Yuncker Sports, and never was equipment so misused, particularly by the Hyacinths.

* * *

That score of 22 to 8 just about tells the tale, and included in the carnage was a 16-run inning by the Lilacs. Coming to bat for the third time in this frame, Carl Graham found himself too tired to walk to the plate, and had to call on Walter "Watty" Watkins to pinch-hit.

What the Hyacinths didn't know was that the third floor harbored the only real softballer in the plant, Burl Bachman, who played last season with Tunckers in the City league, and whose assortment of hurling stuff was entirely sufficient to hold the Hyacinths in check.

Lilacs got away in the lead with three runs in the first stanza, due to a homer by Eldon Becker and the Hyacinths tied it up with three in the third. Each club scored three in the fourth, and then came the fifth inning merry-go-round of 16 runs for the Lilacs.

"Oh, well," said Manager Gilmore Hiett, who was knocked out of the box in that wild fifth inning, "we've got to drop one once in a while."

Manager Lindsay announced he was disbanding his team "before a real team challenges us."

The box score? An expert couldn't have kept track of that ball game.

BATTLE FOR TITLE IN LEGION TOURNEY

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Cleveland, victor over Cincinnati's defending champions, meets Columbus today in the winner's bracket of the state American Legion junior baseball tournament. Cincinnati and Defiance clash in the loser's division.

Cleveland defeated Cincinnati 8 to 3 yesterday; Defiance edged Elyria 11 to 10 and Springfield downed Lima 4 to 3.

Long Winning Streak Ended

Tommy Riese Fails To Gain Eleventh Triumph.

(By Associated Press)

The longest winning streak of the American Association season came to an end last night when Tommy Reis, Kansas City righthander, failed in an effort to gain his 11th straight pitching success.

Reis, undefeated since Toledo turned the trick, May 19, appeared well on the way to continuing his string until the Indians tied the score in the ninth. In the 10th, Reis' pitching rival, Earl Reid, led off with a single and finally brought home the run that gave Indianapolis a 5-4 decision when Jo Jo Moore singled.

* * *

Although losing the second game, Kansas City won the opener from Indianapolis and thus retained its one game first place margin over Milwaukee, which also split a double header. Charley Wensloff was responsible for the Blues' triumph, pitching four-hit ball to shut out the Indians, 3 to 0.

Milwaukee won the first game with Louisville, 5 to 4, on Harry Griswold's homer with a mate aboard. The Colonels took the second, 7 to 5 despite a three run last inning Brewer rally.

Columbus, tied for second place Monday night, lost ground by losing to Minneapolis, 3 to 2.

Edge Out O.P.S. 5 to 4 Before Crowd of 1,000

Tying Run Sliding Over Plate Called Out To End Ball Game

WESTINGHOUSE softballers, champions of the National league, hold an edge today over Ohio Public Service, American league title holders, in their five-game series for the Mansfield city championship, after shading O. P. S. 5-4 last evening in the series opener before 1,000 wild, shouting fans at Prospect park.

From all angles, the game was the outstanding thriller of the Mansfield softball season, and if the series continues on the same lines, softball fans are due for a lot of thrills before the championship is decided. This evening the two teams play at Johns park at 6:15.

* * *

For five innings last evening the game was a pitcher's battle between Aid Geiger, Westinghouse star, and Jim Musille, O. P. S. ace. Then the fireworks broke loose.

* * *

Westinghouse scored two runs in the sixth without a hit when Bud Woerth led off with a walk, and Aid Geiger, laying down a sacrifice, was safe on Mowery's error, on which Woerth went to third. Geiger stole second. Woerth scored on a fly to center by Mathias, and Geiger counted when Burton dropped Buck Forman's looper back of third.

Back came O. P. S. with a four-run rally in their half of the sixth. Mapes led off with a single, and Leiter slashed a drive down the right field line that took a bad hop past Berry and went for a home run. Burton walked and Musille singled. Hazlett got a single when Geiger leaped for his high bounder, barely deflecting it so that Shortstop Shaffer couldn't handle the ball. Then Mathias kicked the ball around in short left, and two more runs were in.

Westinghouse brought out its big guns to tie the score with two runs in the seventh as Berry tripled to the right field corner, and Shaffer doubled to deep center Shaffer went to third on an error and counted on a wild pitch, but he would have tallied anyhow as Woerth came through with another double.

* * *

Westies tallied the winning run in the eighth when Hummell golfed a single to short left center, and went to second on Hazlett's error. Forman walked, and Bob Shade singled, plating Hummell.

* * *

But O. P. S. wasn't through, and they treated the fans to as thrilling a game-ending as you'd care to see.

Hazlett flied to center to start the last of the ninth, but Oswalt drew a life when Lewis bobbled his grounder which bounced off Freddy's knee. Harper also flied to center. Oswalt went to second on a wild pitch, and then came the roaring climax.

* * *

Downs laced a clean single to center and Oswalt attempted to score from second on the hit, but slid into the plate a split second behind Mathias' throw, and O. P. S. missed the tying run. The argument that followed was loud and long, but the umpire, as usual, was right.

* * *

There was drama in that game-ending, even as there had been drama all through the battle. Westinghouse had been considered an overwhelming favorite, and fans and O. P. S. players alike hoped only that it would be a close game. They were all highly delighted when the Powermen gave the Westies a real argument.

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal. —(U.P.)— Warren Claunch, 14, has been an invalid since 1935, when he was in an automobile-bicycle crash.

Despite the fact that he was unable to study for the first three years after the accident, he has just received his diploma as a member of the Pacific Grove grammar school graduation class of 1942.

The school board arranged for a teacher to visit him daily and he was graduated as an honor student.

The youth will enter high school in the fall with the aid of an electric wheel chair presented him by a local church congregation.

PRICES MOVE DOWNWARD IN MODERATE WAY

Fractional Losses Tagged on Many Stock Leaders During Day's Trade.

NEW YORK — Prices moved downward moderately in trading on the stock market today.

Fractional losers included American Telephone, Anaconda, Chrysler, Chesapeake & Ohio, United Aircraft and U. S. Steel. Douglas dipped a point.

With power production now enjoying a position as perhaps the best over-all measure of the war output, investors noted the latest total was 11.8 per cent ahead of a year ago, for the fourth consecutive weekly advance.

Energy output, lagging for atime earlier this year as many plants struggled with conversion from peace to war, has recently climbed back into its usual seasonal trend. If it follows the normal pattern, it should increase with few interruptions until the end of the year.

Traders were impressed with the ease with which a "special" offering of General Electric Common stock was absorbed yesterday in the stock exchange. It was the first occasion on which the demand for the special offers, which allow a commission to dealers in redistributing to the public, had been so large that orders had to be pro-rated to eager buyers. The stock came from a trust account at a local bank.

CIRCUS SHOWS DESPITE FIRE

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—The tradition of the circus that the show must go on was staunchly upheld last night as the evening performance of Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey big exhibition thrilled a capacity crowd of 14,000 while the animal death toll in the disastrous fire reached 38.

The circus management announced that 29 animals died either of burns or suffocation and nine others were shot to death in mercy killings so badly were their hides and bodies burned. Many also had breathed flames, keepers said, in the roaring blaze which destroyed the menagerie tent and sent it billowing down on helpless wild beasts caged helplessly in brightly-hued circus wagons.

John Ringling North, principal owner of the circus, said that because a circus is classed as "extremely hazardous" by insurance companies, none of the animals was covered by insurance because the "premiums are prohibitive."

"We may never know what started the fire," North said, as he placed the $200,000 valuation on the fire loss. He said that destruction of the menagerie tent two hours before yesterday's afternoon performance was to start, was "complete and horrible."

Animal victims of the terrific blaze which lasted slightly more than five minutes and brought screaming, painful death to the caged and tethered beasts included 10 camels, nine zebras, four lions, two Hindu llamas, two tigers, two giraffes, two gnu, one puma, two white deer, one axis deer, and three elephants.

The fire broke out shortly before noon yesterday and in a few moments was a flaming mass of canvas, fanned by a brisk wind and fed by tons of stray and tanbark. Animals raced for their lives from the canvas inferno, endangering 5,000 spectators as they stampeded from the tent, led the horses and elephants.

Only the quick and efficent action of 900 circus hands and the cool work of coastguardsmen, armed with sub-machine guns to prevent any of the frenzied animals from attacking spectators prevented a major tragedy.

Among the unsung heroes of the fire was Chester Koch, city coordinator of patriotic activities, who saw a number of elephants, routed by the fire, lumbering down Lakeside avenue from the Lakeside site of the circus.

Koch emitted a whoop and the pachyderms stopped until their keepers caught up with them.

A sorrowful figure was John Sabo, boss animal man for the circus since 1915.

"I knew all those animals, I knew every trick they could pull," he said. "I couldn't even watch while they were being shot. For me it would be just like shooting a child if I had to shoot one. I liked them all like babies."

Gargantua, the giant gorilla attraction of the "biggest show on earth," and his gorilla wife, Toto, were wheeled to safety in their huge glass cage and attendants poured streams of water on it to keep them cool as the fire raged in the tent and licked at the animal cages.

Several of the badly burned animals, including three elephants, were housed in Public hall, where keepers applied tannic acid and other burn formulas to their fire-ripped and scorched hides with long paint brushes.

The circus, which came here from Pittsburgh, ends its four-day stand here tomorrow night. Only yesterday afternoon's performance was cancelled because of the fire, although the freak shows and other midway attractions entertained thousands who came to the grounds oblivious of the tragedy until they saw the scorched earth where once stood the menagerie tent and the charred animal cages.
